Cookies; Interest Based Advertising; Social Media

Our Site uses cookies, web server logs, tags, SDKs, tracking pixels, local storage, JavaScript, APIs, session replay/screen capture (i.e., how you use and navigate the Site, but not your keystroke data), social widgets, and other similar technologies from time to time.

- Cookies are small data files a website can send to your browser, which may then be stored on your device, sometimes with a code unique to your device. They may be served by the entity that operates the website you are visiting (“first-party cookies”) or by other companies (“third-party cookies”). Cookies enable us and our vendors to recognize your computer; store your preferences, settings, and other data; understand the web pages you have visited on our Site and elsewhere; enhance your user experience by delivering and measuring the effectiveness of content and advertising tailored to your interests; perform searches and analytics; and assist with security and administrative functions.
- A web server log is a file where online activity is stored. It may be used for similar purposes.
- An SDK is a set of tools and/or code that we embed in our applications and software to perform certain functions, such as allowing us or third parties to collect information about how users interact with our Site.
- Tags or tracking pixels (sometimes also referred to as web beacons or clear GIFs) are small code (sometimes containing, generating, or detecting a unique identifier) embedded in websites, online ads, and email, that can be used for purposes such as generating web server logs or reading or writing cookies for the purposes described above.
- Social widgets are buttons or icons provided by third-party social media providers that allow you to interact with those social media services when you view a web page or mobile app screen. Widgets may collect browsing data, which may be received by the third party that provided the widget, and are controlled by such third parties.

- We may also use certain third-party web and mobile app analytics services – including but not limited to Google Analytics and Facebook Custom Audiences – to help us understand and analyze how visitors use the Site and serve ads on our behalf across the Internet and in different channels.

You can control or limit how we and our partners use cookies and similar technologies, including for advertising.
